Passage to ASEAN Offering at: Chiang Mai Rajabhat University, Thailand

“Promoting One Caring and Sharing Society”

Introduction

CMRU is located in Chiang Mai province in the heart of the city, widely recognized as the capital of northern Thailand. CMRU identifies itself as university closely connected to local community development. Founded in 1824 as the first teacher training college in northern Thailand, CMRU has been seeking ways to be a better resource for community. The university has also set its sights on expanding collaboration internationally with other institutions and organizations and warmly welcome students from overseas to come to Chiang Mai.

Why Chiang Mai, Thailand?

"Sawaddee Jao" (Hello) is what you will hear when coming to Chiang Mai, the old capital city of the Lanna Kingdom. Dating back more than 700 years, Chiang Mai, the second largest metropolitan, next to Bangkok was originally name "Nopburi Srinakornping Chiang Mai" meaning the new city. Chiang Mai is a city of distinct beauty that has its own cultural heritage. Known also as the "ROSE OF THE NORTH", its alone draw much tourist attention. Along with its numerous ancient temples and buildings, Chiang Mai is also famous for its handicrafts. Nature has made it stand out, thanks to the majestic mountains and valleys and its beautiful scenery: hills, mountain streams, lakes, field, waterfalls, caves, hill tribe villages, elephant camps & trekking tours, and river rafting expeditions. Mysteries are here waiting for your discovery.
